case study

The Capita Challenge

Ragley Hall was the perfect venue for this year's Capita Challenge, an annual activity event for all abilities, when teams from Capita's businesses, as well as their clients and suppliers, come together and compete for the coveted Capita Challenge Trophy. Fundraising is a key part of the event, with a special prize for the team that raises the most money for Macmillan Cancer Support.

The event was coordinated by Trail Plus, a company that specialises in organising outdoor adventures and challenges. When asked why he chose Ragley as the venue, Paul Magner, Event Organiser, said; "With hundreds of company employees taking part from all corners of the UK, Ragley Hall's location and accessibility was a great plus and matched by the wonderfully varied and interesting terrain."

The event involved teams taking part in a series of challenges, including orienteering, canoeing and tackling a climbing wall. The day also included an energy boosting breakfast and lunch for all of the participants and culminated with celebratory drinks and a BBQ.

According to Paul; "From the moment of my very first visit to Ragley Hall, the staff were very receptive to both mine and my client's needs and on the day itself there was a real feeling of one team working together for the benefit of the client. From the range of facilities and the speed of response to meet last minute demands, to the portions of quality home-cooked food and smiles on staff members' faces, I could not fault the attention to detail and quality of service."

The event made full use of Ragley's stunning Parkland, including the woods and lake and the House and Gardens provided the perfect backdrop for the participants to relax following a hard day's competition.

Paul concludes; "Combining the venue, facilities and service, Ragley Hall more than just met my requirements- they exceeded both mine and my client's expectations."
